REGULATE SIDEWALK WALKING

Editor Honolulu Star-Bulletin.

Sir: When you editors come to a halt on account of a belt slipping off or something of the kind, and there is a moment's letup along the line of trying to make the public think as you do, you "take your pencil in hand" and have a jab at the traffic problem, incorporating therein much sarcasm and uncharitable balloon essence regarding the motorists and the drivers of automobiles. The fact is where you can say just what suits your fancy, and your fancy usually leads along lines that fall in unpleasant places for the motorist and his doings. Should anybody suggest to you that the pedestrian himself is, in a large way, directly responsible for many of the accidents that occur, you come at them the next day with something along the "funny" line on traffic rules and limited speeds for the pedestrian. That is all right and goes for the minute, but there is still a most important problem to be solved on this very complex question.

The drivers of automobiles are under the stringent regulations of the traffic laws, and have, notwithstanding the general idea to the contrary, much more respect for constituted authority than have pedestrians.

What discipline is framed for the user of the sidewalk? Do they regularly observe the law of "right of the road" toward other pedestrians? Do they move along with any sense of the rights of others? And let me say that there are sidewalk hogs that put the street hog so far in the shade that he loses all porcine identity.

Promulgate a lot of laws for the pedestrian. Make them along the same lines as those governing the motorist and you will find that there will be but few funny things to write about from either side, and the pedestrian and the motorist will be more capable of being judged the contrary.

There was a time when the streets were in just as bad a tangle and mudle with vehicle traffic as prevails among the pedestrians on the sidewalks today, when people are dodging each other, to the right or left, whichever shows an opening, bumping into each other. Standing in groups in the middle of the sidewalk to talk over some dance of last week, while other pedestrians have to take to the street to get by. Get along the best way you can.

Traffic regulations straightened out all such similar doings among vehicles. Subject those who use the sidewalks and crossings to regulations along the same lines and then we will have the traffic problem fairly well solved.

EQUALITY.

DIFFERENTIAL ON BEET SUGAR LIMITED TO 10 CENTS AT OUTSIDE

A circular letter was issued by sugar factors of San Francisco recently notifying "the trade" that in future there would be no differential on beet sugar, "or at the most ten cents." This move represents the effort of George M. Rolph, Hoover's representative where sugar is concerned, to do away with the market discrimination against beet sugar, which has existed from time immemorial.

This differential heretofore has been 20 cents per hundred pounds, which means that the 100-pound sack of cane sugar has invariably cost more than a corresponding sack of beet sugar.

As the sweetening power of each of these sugars is supposed to be equal the discrimination against beet sugar merely represented a prejudice on the part of the consumers.

PERSONALITIES

HUGH HOWELL, a Maui contractor, is in Honolulu today on a business trip.

MISS ELIZABETH APPLETON, daughter of Mrs. S. C. Huber, arrived in Honolulu from her home in Tama, Iowa, Wednesday, and expects to spend the winter here.

MAJ. CHARLES R. FORBES, O. R. C., who is attached to the aviation section, is situated at Charlotte, N. C., as division signal officer. Forbes was formerly superintendent of public works in Hawaii.

G. TASHIRO, local Japanese business agent, who has been a resident of Honolulu for many years, is to visit in Japan for four months. Next Tuesday afternoon he will entertain friends at a farewell banquet at the Tokiwa club, Nuuanu street.

SPENCER BROWN, former manager of the Associated Charities of Honolulu and who was assigned to duty as inspector at the Brooklyn navy yard shortly after America entered the war, is now assigned to the aerological bureau of the signal corps, which is under the control of the weather bureau.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—J. K. NAKLA of the Kukoa: I am very sorry to see Rev. H. H. Parker of Kawaiaha church resign his position. He has been a good adviser of the Hawaiian people.

—SUPERVISOR BEN HOLLINGER: What's the matter with the Japanese fountain at Kapiolani park? It is not finished yet. I hope the Japanese will hurry up with their work.

—CITY EDITOR KAWAMURA of the Nippon Jiji: There must be something doing down in the Marshall Island waters. I expect to hear from the Japanese navy department in Tokyo.

PUBLIC GIVEN BENEFIT OF MILLINERY PURCHASE

The Wonder Millinery Company of 1017 Nuuanu street is living up to its policy of giving 100 per cent value on every purchase. And this week while they last new straw and satin shapes "Just received from the states on the 'Matsonia'" will be sold at about a third of their actual value. Thus the Wonder Millinery is giving the public the benefit of its lucky purchase in the East.—Adv.
